

Enemy Pull-Back in Cambodia

By JOHN T. WHEELER
Associated Press Writer
PHNOM PENH (AP) — Communist troops have pulled out of at least part of the ancient ruins at Angkor, with the ruins not damaged by more than a month of occupation, authoritative sources reported today.

It was not known whether the Viet Cong, North Vietnamese and Khmer Rouge troops had withdrawn from the entire 50-square-mile Angkor area or only from Angkor Wat, the best preserved and most famous of the 800-year-old ruins 155 miles northwest of Phnom Penh. But reports from Siem Reap, six miles south of Angkor Wat, said Cambodian Army patrols found the enemy gone from the main area at Angkor Wat.

A general lull continued in other Cambodian battle areas as well as in South Vietnam.

South Vietnamese gunships attacked enemy positions around Kompong Thom, on the main highway between Phnom Penh and Siem Reap, and enemy mortars hit Kompong Sepu, another provincial capital south of Phnom Penh, during the night.

South Vietnamese forces near Svay Rieng, in the southern area of the Parrot's Beak, were also hit by mortars, a communique in Saigon said, but fighting generally tapered off in the Cambodian countryside.

The U.S. Command in Saigon reported two Americans killed when a gunship helicopter was shot down 16 miles southeast of Hue and 56 Americans wounded in ground fighting and shelling. Troops of the 101st Airborne Division clashed four times with North Vietnamese in the northern provinces of South Vietnam and reported they killed at least 15 of the enemy. Another 16 enemy were reported killed in other fighting.

U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers left Saigon for Tokyo, ending a three-day stay with the assignment that the level of fighting has been reduced and that U.S. casualties last week, to be announced Thursday, will be "much lower" than in previous weeks. A U.S. spokesman said later that the figures will not be a record low.

Another visitor, U.S. Army Secretary Stanley Resor, also left Saigon and said he had found the Vietnamization program has made "substantial progress to date."

Resor said the operations of South Vietnamese forces in Cambodia had boosted their morale and confidence. But he added operations in Cambodia "will not be conducted in such a way as to restrict the Vietnamization program." He explained that if Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, finds that South Vietnamese operations outside Vietnam are delaying Vietnamization, Abrams will arrange with the Vietnamese command to limit such operations.

Communist troops moved into the vast Angkor complex early in June, set up supply dumps and fortified some of the ruins with mortars and anti-aircraft guns.

The Cambodian government, worried for the country's greatest shrine and its major tourist money maker, declared Angkor an "open city" and said its forces would do nothing that might endanger the relics of former Khmer glory.

WR Defends Pardoning of Students

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller Monday defended his decision to pardon two Arkansas State University students who were convicted of illegal possession of drugs.

In a speech to about 400 persons at the opening of his Northeast Arkansas Regional Campaign Headquarters, Rockefeller charged that Prosecutor Gerald Pearson of Jonesboro had written a letter recommending that jail sentences for Buel Lee Hensley, 19, of Heber Springs and Gary Turner, 21, of Wynne be waived.

"A lot of people think I did wrong in pardoning the two men who committed a crime, but I wonder how many persons have been to our prisons to see what it's like down there," Rockefeller said.

Pearson said later that Rockefeller must have been referring to a letter that Pearson wrote to an attorney for the two which verified he had recommended to a Circuit Court judge at Jonesboro that the men be given suspended sentences.

Rockefeller also told the crowd the state had benefited from his two years in office and "I want to lock up the two-party system with one more term."

Rockefeller, who arrived in Jonesboro in his campaign bus, was introduced by his campaign manager, Lt. Gov. Maurice Britt.

Britt said the governor had worked long hours and received much criticism, but "it never bothers him."

Hampton Would Hike Welfare Aid

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Rev. R. J. Hampton, a Republican candidate for governor, said Monday if elected he would do everything he could to see that persons on welfare received the maximum amount possible without raising taxes.

Hampton, a Negro, appeared on a question-and-answer program on a Little Rock radio station.

Hampton, who resigned as president of Shorter College in North Little Rock to run for governor, also said he would raise teacher's salaries and provide more junior colleges without raising taxes.

On prison reform, Hampton said he would personally review the record of each inmate in the state prison to make sure that only persons who belong in prison are kept there. He said he is opposed to capital punishment.

Hampton said he did not see any need to raise taxes to improve education or any other reason and said what the state needed was "good, sound common sense."

City Manager, Garland Medders was the speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Lions Monday at the Town & Country. Mr. Medders spoke to the group on the water situation, giving information on costs of pipe lines, costs of wells, and presented a series of slides prepared by the State Geological Commission. The pictures and text came from a work titled "A Primer on Ground Water."

Program Chairman Haskell Jones presented Mr. Medders to the club.

Frank Ramsey of the Hope Water Department was the guest of Lion Gene White.

Premier's Ouster Stops Strike

By DENNIS REDMONT
Associated Press Writer
ROME (AP) — Premier Mariano Rumor's resignation staved off a one-day general strike today, but no end to Italy's latest political crisis was in sight.

Rumor's four-party Center-Left cabinet resigned Monday after the three major labor federations rejected his appeal to cancel the walkout they had scheduled to press for social reforms. Six hours after the premier handed his resignation to President Giuseppe Saragat, the unions suspended their strike plans.

Leftist political groups, including the left wing of his own Christian Democratic party, accused Rumor of playing into the hands of the rightists in an attempt to shift the orientation of the center-left coalition that has governed Italy for the past seven years.

The big Communist party said Rumor was hoping ultimately to dissolve Parliament "in a climate of alarm and amid a reactionary crusade." It said he was trying to propel a more conservative Parliament into power by capitalizing on public fear of disorders.

The two Socialist parties in Rumor's coalition split in their reaction. The PSU, or moderate Socialists, called Rumor's decision "correct and responsible." But Vice Premier Francesco De Martino, head of the PSI, or leftist Socialists, said the resignation was a "political error."

A long-simmering feud between the moderate and left-wing Socialist parties is at the root of the current crisis. Disputes between the two over such issues as how closely to cooperate with the Communists have led to the fall of the past two governments.

Rumor sent a letter to the leaders of the four coalition parties pleading for an end to internal bickering. He spoke of "quieting symptoms, including the labor situation, which harm production, internal positions and foreign markets."

The four-party coalition is the only lineup that can produce a workable majority in parliament and if it cannot be rebuilt, new elections will have to be held three years ahead of schedule.

Fight Upon Smoking Is World-Wide

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — An increasing concern over the possible health hazards of smoking has resulted in intensive anti-tobacco campaigns in at least 25 nations, according to the U.S. public Health Service.

In spite of this effort, a survey gave unqualified bad marks to seven other countries, while two more were judged just so-so in their attack on smoking, the health service reported.

While most of the antismoking campaigns are of the nature used in the United States—health warnings on cigarette packs, restrictions on advertising—the survey reported several unusual approaches.

For instance, Bulgaria requires that if you want to smoke on the job, you must get permission—in writing—from any nonsmoking fellow-workers.

And posters in factories and elsewhere in the Soviet Union carrying such legends as "Tobacco is Poison," and "How to Burn Up Your Health."

Summarizing the highlights of the report by its National Clearing House for Smoking and Health, the agency said:

"Several countries have taken, or are about to take, action prohibiting or sharply restricting, cigarette advertising, particularly over radio and television."

"It is barred from television in England and France, and from both radio and television in Argentina, Czechoslovakia, Iceland, Italy, Rumania and Switzerland."

"It will be eliminated from radio and television in Finland and Ireland in 1971, and in Canada as soon as present contracts expire. In Thailand, the tobacco monopoly expects cigarette advertising will leave the air."

Cigarette advertising will be prohibited from radio and television in the United States beginning Jan. 2, 1971.

"Health warning labels on cigarette packages are required in Iceland and Peru," the report continued. "Warning labels are being considered in Australia and the United Kingdom."

"The demand for filter tip cigarettes and cigarettes with low 'tar' and nicotine levels is increasing in several countries," the agency said, "suggesting an increasing public awareness of the health hazards of smoking." The agency noted the demand is particularly strong in Austria, Canada, West Germany, the Netherlands, Scandinavia and Japan.

The Soviet Union introduced filter cigarettes recently, it said.

20 Million in Air Crash Claims

TORONTO (AP) — Air Canada officials estimate the cost of settling claims arising from the second worst air crash in Canadian history will come to at least $20 million.

The Air Canada Super DC8 jetliner crashed in a farm field Sunday after losing two of its four engines and a wingtip in a fire as it was trying to land in Toronto. All 99 passengers and nine crew members were killed.

The plane was en route from Montreal to Los Angeles, and more than 20 of the passengers were from Southern California. By late Monday, 40 persons—relatives of 14 of the victims—had arrived from Montreal, Halifax and Los Angeles to help identify the dead.

"I think they came here out of sheer frustration" said an airline spokesman. The spokesman said Air Canada is not encouraging relatives to fly to Toronto but brings them at company expense if they ask to come.

Police said identification procedures would take all week, after which unidentified remains would be buried in a mass grave.

Ontario province's chief coroner, Dr. H.B. Cotnam, said an inquest jury of five local men would view the crash site today, although the inquest will not start for at least three months.

Richard Bolduc, chief air accident investigator for the Canadian Department of Transport, said there was no tentative theory on the cause of the crash. He said the flight recorder would provide definitive information, but it would take up to five weeks to decode it.

A tape recording of the conversation between the pilot and the control tower probably will not be made public because it is technical in nature and liable to misinterpretation, Bolduc said.

Man Killed in Batesville Crash

BATESVILLE, Ark. (AP) — J. L. Taylor, 76, of Sage (Izard County) was killed Monday in a two-car collision on Arkansas 69 about 19 miles north of here. Taylor was driving a car that crossed the center line and struck another car head-on, police said.

No Tax Hike, Malone Pledges

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — James Malone Jr. of Lonoke, a Democratic candidate for governor, said Monday night that he would not raise taxes if he were elected.

Malone, in a 30-minute television speech in Little Rock, also said that before the campaign is over there will be a "marriage of forces in this state, which, if allowed to stand" will divide the people more than ever.

He said the nation is divided between the young and the old, the black and the white, the rich and the poor, and "if we are to survive we must find a common ground where all the children of America can live with their differences and still be proud to be part of the greatest nation on earth."

Malone did not propose to solve the differences but "to provide a rallying point for all men and women of good will."

Malone, 43, said his campaign was "free of any taint of machine influence."

He said his experience in business qualified him to provide "an economical and realistic administration" of state government without a tax increase.

Malone said the establishment of a "strict and honorable" prison system would get "top priority" in his administration. He also made a promise to increase welfare grants to the aged to more than $100 a month.

4th's Final Death Toll Is 540

CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic accidents during the Fourth of July weekend claimed 540 lives across the nation.

The final toll was well below the 611 counted a year ago, the highest for any three-day observance of the holiday.

The National Safety Council had estimated in advance that 560 to 660 persons might die in traffic over the weekend that began at 6 p.m. local time Thursday and ended at midnight Sunday.

The Soviet Union introduced filter cigarettes recently, it said.

Irish Visit Denounced by Ulster

By COLIN FROST
Associated Press Writer
BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Premier James Chichester-Clark of Northern Ireland today sharply denounced the clandestine visit to his tense province Monday by the Irish Republic's foreign minister.

"I am astounded," said Chichester-Clark, "that the foreign minister of any state should show such a lack of courtesy as to visit Northern Ireland without reference to me or to the Northern Ireland government—the more so in the present very serious situation."

"I cannot regard such a visit as helpful and I deplore it."

Foreign Minister Patrick Hillery, who also is Ireland's deputy premier, said he made his unannounced visit to the riot-torn Falls Road area of Belfast to "relax tension" among the Roman Catholics there.

A source close to the provincial government said the Irish government was "obviously trying to get United Nations intervention by making this into an international incident."

"This is a trespass by a foreigner into British territory and is against all political convention," the source added. But the British Foreign office said Hillery as an Irishman "is perfectly free to travel to any part of Ireland."

Hillery's maneuver was expected to enrage Northern Ireland's dominant Protestants. They were expected to regard it as a symbolic assertion of the republic's claim to the six northern counties, which were split off from the 26 Catholic-dominated counties to the south 50 years ago.

The Rev. Ian Paisley, the militant Protestant evangelist, called the visit "an unwarranted interference in the internal affairs" of the British province.

Hillery said he would approach the British government on behalf of the Falls Road Catholics, who complained that British soldiers looted and wrecked their homes while they searched for arms after fighting last weekend.

Political observers felt the main reason for the trip was to counter criticism in the republic that Irish Prime Minister Jack Lynch was playing too passive a role in the crisis between Northern Ireland's Catholics and Protestants. Lynch's government has pledged to reunify Ireland only through peaceful means.

Hillery said in a television interview after he returned to Dublin that the Northern Irish

Security of Health to Follow SS

WASHINGTON (AP) — A program of health security for every American—designed to replace medicare, medicaid and a portion of private insurance coverage—was proposed by a citizens' committee today.

The health security program would be financed and administered in much the same way as Social Security now is, through federal taxes and contributions by employers and employees.

The program would provide doctors' services, hospital and nursing-home care, psychiatric treatment, drugs and, eventually, dental services for all.

The plan was outlined at a news conference by the Committee for National Health Service, a group of 100 brought together by the late Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers. The committee is headed by Leonard Woodcock, Reuther's successor with the union.

The committee did not estimate the cost of the health plan. "The insecurity created by the health crisis in America gnaws at the American family and at the deepest roots of our society," Woodcock said. "Our health security program represents a serious major effort to face this challenge."

"Many millions of Americans, regardless of their ability to pay, get inferior and inadequate care. Millions of poor people get no care at all," Woodcock said.

A task force appointed by President Nixon recommended last week that medicare—a $6-billion-a-year program of health care for the poor—be replaced with a federal health insurance plan. That group did not make a recommendation on a national insurance plan for all income groups.

A national health program can be developed, the committee concluded, "in an American way without taking over the operation of hospitals or making health professionals employees of the government. We are convinced that over time it will be possible through this program to make modern, high-quality care available to all our people."

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

MRS. DAVID W. MANNING

Highland Park Presbyterian Church in Dallas, Texas was the scene of the impressive double ceremony of Miss Judith Elizabeth Amour and David Wylie Manning on Tuesday, June 23, at six-thirty in the evening.

The ceremony was performed by the Reverend R. Earl Price in Cathedral architecture Wynne Chapel. The nuptial vows were spoken before an altar graced with white tapers in elaborate gold candelabra flanked by a massive arrangement of Killian daisies, white stadium mums, pink gladioli, and leatherleaf fern. The chancel was banked with commodore and leatherleaf fern interspersed with myriad white candles in spiral standards. Additional candles in seven branch candelabra were used on each side of the chancel.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Sam R. Parker at the organ and S. Devon Hamilton, soloist who sang "The Wedding Prayer" by Williams and "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her step-father, James Norman Stokes, who gave her in marriage. She wore her mother's wedding gown of candlelight slipper satin fashioned with fitted bodice sweetheart neckline, Juliet sleeves ending in calla lily points over the hands, and a full skirt terminating in a three-yard voluminous train. The softly gathered skirt was centered with a tapered panel of reem-broidered Alencon lace encrusted with seed pearls extending to encircle the hemline, and it was attached to the basque bodice of lace cumberbund style also scattered with seed pearls. Her manto of imported French illusion was deeply outlined with matching Alencon lace and was caught to a crown of lace encrusted with seed pearls and extended the length of her train. She wore an heirloom necklace of triple-strand pearls with a cameo pendant set in tiny seed pearls with matching cameo clasp, which had also been worn

Teachers Urged Into Politics

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Helen Bain, a Tennessee English teacher, has assumed the presidency of the National Education Association with a call for more political activity by the nation's school teachers.

"Whether we like it or not, education is in the political arena," Mrs. Bain declared Monday night in her installation address.

"It is imperative that we tool up our political might to defend the right of every child to be given an equal chance to grow," she said.

The Nashville teacher said the NEA has learned that sometimes teacher strikes are necessary.

"And the NEA will be 100 percent behind them," she declared.

"As teachers, we believe that strikes are distasteful. We are pleased that for every strike 20 contracts are negotiated professionally," she said.

Trip for Scout Pack 92

Cub Scout Pack 92 of Brookwood School took a trip thru KXAR with Haskell Jones as their guide. The boys were much impressed with the activity necessary to keep a radio station on the air.

Later the same afternoon (June 29) they were given a tour of Young American Homes by Wayne Sanderline of that firm. They looked at a mobil home unit from the floor thru completion. The biggest surprise was to find out how quickly a mobil home could be completed.

The boys attending were: Taylor King, David Allen, Mark Moore, Scott Patton, and Den Chiefs Paul Patton of Troop 92 and Larry Patton of Explorer Post 91. Accompanying them were Mrs. Don King and son Mark, Mrs. Robert Moore and Vickie, Den Mother— Mrs. Albert Patton, Naida and Tracy.

On Tuesday June 30, the Cub Scout Pack and their parents along with some of the Explorers and their parents had a swim party at the Fair Park pool. This is a weekly event for the boys with parents attending whenever they can.

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

MRS. WILLIAM D. KENNEDY

Miss Annita Kate Bres and William David Kennedy spoke wedding vows June 12 at 7:30 p.m. ceremonies at Barksdale Baptist Church in Bossier City Louisiana.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Charles Bres and the late Mr. Bres and Mrs. Kenneth R. Witt of Bossier City and W. G. Kennedy of Des Moines, New Mexico. Mr. Kennedy is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Baker of Hope.

The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, J. T. Gray of Ida, Louisiana.

She wore a dress fashioned of silk over net designed with an empire waist and inset lace yoke accented with tiny sequins. The gown featured long Bishop sleeves with a lace cuff. Accented with sequins and a chapel train of silk net with rows of lace. The shoulder-length veil was caught by a small crown covered with lace and sequins. She carried a white orchid in a nest of carnations on a white Bible.

The maid of Honor, Miss Cindy Oglesby, of Bossier City wore a dress of pink silk Shantung designed with an Empire waist, short cap sleeves and an A-line skirt. She carried a nosegay of Boston Rose Carnations.

Michael Byrd of Bossier City served as best man.

Ushers were Clarence Kennedy, brother of the groom, Don Weatherby of Bossier City, Richard Sanders of Raceland, Louisiana, and Jimmy Johnson of Hope.

Miss Paula Oglesby was flower girl. A reception at the church

Segregation of Retarded Is Opposed

By PEGGY SIMPSON Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Mentally retarded children should not be segregated in their own schools, but placed in the mainstream of the educational experience, a joint Canadian-United States study said today.

The report, released simultaneously in Washington and in Toronto, summarizes a joint conference of the Canadian-U.S. study Group on Mental Retardation held last year.

Special class programs should be re-evaluated, especially for the mildly retarded, the report said, to give the child access to the full resources of education.

The study called for at least 15,000 more special education teachers in the two nations, adding the supply of aides is critically short.

The report said U.S. institutions, in addition, need at least 50 per cent more professionals to meet minimal standards in caring for the retarded.

Just as the retarded child should be integrated into the regular education process, the report said, so should mental retardation programs be merged into comprehensive community services for the handicapped.

Getting the needed extra personnel will require a change of attitude by entrenched professional groups, the study said.

The directors of agencies and institutions must accept more help from aides, and existing educational requirements should be lowered, the study said, to overcome the teacher aide shortage.

Followed the ceremony.

The couple will live in Bossier City. Where the groom is employed with Bossier City School Board, and Mrs. Kennedy with South Central Bell Telephone.

Senators Win Over Washington

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer Ted Williams' heavy guns were trained on the Cleveland Indians, but Alvin Dark had the ultimate defensive weapon up his sleeve... a 6-foot-5, left-handed second baseman.

Dark shifted southpaw Sam McDowell from the pitching mound to second base in the midst of an eighth inning Washington rally Monday night... and caught Williams' Senators in the switch as the Indians nailed down a 6-4 victory.

The Cleveland skipper's gamble paid off handsomely for the Indians when McDowell made the inning-ending putout at second, then returned to the hill in the ninth and fanned the side for a total of 15 strikeouts and his 12th victory of the year.

In other American League action, Minnesota nipped Oakland 2-1; California topped Kansas City 6-2; Detroit beat Boston 6-3 and Milwaukee trimmed the Chicago White Sox 3-1. Baltimore and the New York Yankees were idle.

In the National League, the Chicago Cubs swept a doubleheader from Montreal 3-2 and 14-2; the New York Mets blasted St. Louis 10-3; Atlanta drubbed San Francisco 12-4; Cincinnati blanked San Diego 5-0; Pittsburgh shaded Philadelphia 7-5 and Los Angeles defeated Houston 10-8 in 10 innings.

At Cleveland, two homers by Duke Sims and another by Graig Nettles gave the Indians a two-run margin, but the Senators had the tying runs on second and third with two out in the eighth.

Then Dark made his moves. Third baseman Nettles left the game, second baseman Eddie Leon moved to third, McDowell became an instant infielder and right-hander Dean Chance was called out of the bullpen to face big Frank Howard.

Chance walked Howard intentionally, filling the bases but fulfilling his obligation to pitch to at least one batter... and stalemating Williams. Rick Reichardt, a right-hand hitter, was up next, and with McDowell still available to pitch, there was no percentage in sending up a left-hand swinger.

So Williams stuck with Reichardt; Dark stayed with Chance and the result was a grounder to Leon, who flipped to McDowell at second for the rally-killing force on Howard.

"You're darned right I was surprised when Alvin told me to go to second base. And when it was all over, I was almost too excited to go back and pitch."

McDowell might have been shook, but the Senators were doomed when Chance, his job done, handed the ball back to Sudden Sam in the ninth. The big fireballer threw three strikes past Aurelio Rodriguez, Paul Casanova and Tim Cullen in rapid order to end it.

Rookie Bill Zepp and relief ace Ron Perranoski hurled the Twins past Oakland with a combined fivehitter, Zepp bringing his record to 4-0 and Perranoski recording his 19th of the season. Cesar Tovar drove in the winning run with a fourth inning single.

Billy Cowan's three-run homer was the big blow for the Angels, who remained four games off Minnesota's West division pace as right-hander Murphy picked up his 10th victory with ninth inning relief help from Eddie Fisher.

The Tigers shelled Gary Peters for five runs in the first two innings, two of them on Jim Northrup's 15th homer, and hung on to give left-hander Les Cain his seventh consecutive victory.

Mets Take Opener From St. Louis

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer Ron Santo and Felix Millan spent their Monday at the ballpark doing a week's work in a day.

Santo exploded for three home runs including a grand slam, and drove in 10 runs as the Chicago Cubs swept a doubleheader from Montreal 3-2 and 14-2. The two victories in one day matched Chicago's total for the last two weeks.

Millan ripped six straight hits including a double and a triple and drove in four runs as Atlanta trashed San Francisco 12-2. His last hit came in the eighth inning—an at-bat he didn't even want.

Elsewhere in the National League Monday, New York rapped St. Louis 1-3; Pittsburgh knocked off Philadelphia 7-5; Cincinnati shutout San Diego 5-0 and Los Angeles topped Houston 10-8 in 10 innings.

In the American League, Milwaukee topped Chicago 3-1; Detroit downed Boston 6-3; Cleveland defeated Washington 6-4; California downed Kansas City 6-2 and New York and Baltimore had the day off.

Santo tagged a two-run homer in the first game but the Cubs needed a super relief job by Roberto Rodriguez in the ninth inning to nail down the opener.

The Expos loaded the bases with none out in the ninth but Rodriguez came on to strike out John Bateman and Coco Laboy and retired Bob Bailey on a bouncer to end it.

Santo's first inning slam got the Cubs off winging in the nightcap. Then he hit his third homer of the day and 10th of the year with two on in the sixth after forcing another run in by drawing a bases-loaded walk in the fourth.

Millan ran the Giants ragged. One of his four singles drove in two runs as Atlanta broke a 4-4 tie with five runs in the fifth inning. Hal King doubled two home in the big inning.

That gave the Braves a 9-4 edge they still had in the eighth and Millan, now working on a string of five straight hits, wasn't anxious to try and stretch it to six.

"I didn't want to go to bat again and run the risk of spoiling it," said Millan. "Besides, we had enough runs. But Bob Aspromonte told me to go on up again, that I might get another hit. And I did."

Rico Carty of the Braves wallowed a two-run homer, his fourth in four days and the 100th of his career. Willie Mays and Dick Dietz had a pair of two-run shots to account for the Giant scoring.

The Mets crashed a season-high 17 hits including the cycle—a single, double, triple and home run—by Tommie Agee, and homers by Ken Singleton and Ron Swoboda to crush the Cardinals.

Singleton and Donn Clendenon each had three hits in the romp which kept New York one-half game in front in the National League East. Richie Allen and Jose Cardenal connected for the Cardinals.

Pittsburgh won its 12th game in the last 15 by knocking off Philadelphia with airtight relief by Bruce Dal Canton and Dave Giusti. The two relievers split the final four innings, allowing only one hit after Jonny Briggs' second homer and one by Deron Johnson had narrowed the Pirates' lead to a single run.

Richie Hebner tagged a two-run homer for the Pirates. Jim Merritt became the major leagues' first 14-game winner, pitching Cincinnati past the Padres. Merritt, 14-6, fired a six-hitter as the Reds won their sixth game in the last seven and kept their NL West lead at 9½ games.

Pete Rose, Tony Perez and Johnny Bench all poled homers for the Reds, who had managed only one in seven previous games at their new Riverfront Stadium.

Los Angeles exploded for five runs in the 10th inning—the first scoring on a bases-loaded walk by Jim Bouton to Manny Mota—and then rode out a Houston counter rally to knock off the Astros.

Willie Davis and Wes Parker followed the bases-loaded walk with two-run singles and the Dodgers needed the insurance when Houston bounced back with three runs in the bottom of the 10th.

Here's Final Lineup for All-Star

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Luis Aparicio of the Chicago White Sox nosed out Rico Petrocelli of the Boston Red Sox for the starting shortstop job on the American League All-Star team and Davey Johnson of Baltimore was named to replace the injured winner at second base, Rod Carew of Minnesota.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn announced the results of the fan vote of 2,034,724 ballots and the starting line-up that will face the National League July 14 in the All-Star Game at Cincinnati's new Riverfront Stadium.

Boog Powell, Baltimore first baseman, led the league ticket with the highest total, 1,007,930 votes, but fell short of the 1,394,847 polled by Hank Aaron, Atlanta's super star outfielder, in the National League.

Carew, who recently underwent knee surgery, won the second base starting job by a tremendous margin of about 678,000 votes. However, Carew will not be able to play. Commissioner Kuhn announced, his place would be taken by Johnson of Baltimore, the choice of Manager Earl Weaver of the Orioles, who will boss the American League team.

Actually, Johnson was fifth in the voting in which Carew had 878,101, Dick McAuliffe of Detroit, 200,282, Tommy Harper of Milwaukee, 185,356, Mike Andrews of Boston, 143,301 and Johnson 116,197.

The Commissioner's office announced McAuliffe, the runner-up, who has been playing regularly despite an injured knee, had been advised by his doctor to rest.

Aparicio shaded Petrocelli by 11,801 votes in the only close contest. Bill Freehan of Detroit was the landslide choice at catcher with 944,601 votes. Powell won

Cain, Detroit, 8-2, 800, 3,69; McDaniels, New York, 7-2, 778, 1,17. STRIKEOUTS — McDowell, Cleveland, 172; Lolich, Detroit, 116.

What Women's Golf Needs Is Told by Carol Mann, a Star

By KAROL STONGER

Associated Press Sports Writer

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP) — A gal with the looks of Raquel Welch, the game of Mickey Wright and the personality of Marilyn Smith.

That, says Carol Mann, is what the women's golf tour needs right now to boost its feminine image and attract bigger galleries.

Miss Mann, attractively attired in a pale blue print jersey golf dress with a hint of blue eyeshadow and a matching bow peeking from her blonde curls, is credited by most of her peers with starting a femininity movement on the tour.

"We've had a bad image for a long time," said Linda Craft, a member of the Ladies' Professional Golf Association Publicity Committee. "It goes back to the rugged days of Babe Zaharias."

She says half of the problem has been solved by the introduction of feminine golf garb now worn by about 85 percent of the professional players.

The other half? "The amateurs need to get with it," she says. "I think they have an immature view of what a golfer should be so they dress in Arnold Palmer shirts and short pants."

"I don't want to look like a golfer," added the 31-year-old player from Jacksboro, Tex. "I want to look like a girl."

"Look at this, isn't it great?" she asked, holding up a yellow golf hat with a yellow and orange bow attached above the visor.

"All we used to have were men's hats, we looked like Frank Beard going down the all the way at first as did Carew at second. Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota had a margin of over 114,000 over Brooks Robinson of Baltimore for third base.

Frank Robinson of Baltimore, Frank Howard of Washington and Carl Yastrzemski of Boston were picked as the starting outfielders. Tony Oliva of Minnesota was fourth about 210,000 short of Yastrzemski in third place.

There were no appreciable write-in votes in the American League. Al Kaline of Detroit who was not on the computer ballot selected last winter, polled 161,197 votes.

Most of the plans he mentioned at a news conference Monday involve spending money. The millionaire insurance executive who bought the National Hockey League club for $4.5 million says his principal interest in the team will be financial — "seeing that every penny is spent wisely."

Among the things he said he has in mind: —"beefing up" the club's present force of five fulltime scouts.

—pursuing the "difficult but not impossible" task of trying to acquire a superstar. He said his first try failed, but didn't name the player he was after.

—seeking additional farm club ties to add to the Seals' working agreement with Providence, R.I., of the American Hockey League.

—outfitting players in kelly green and gold uniforms—colors matching those worn by players on his baseball club, the Oakland Athletics of the American League.

—promoting attendance through special nights such as Puck Night, Stick Night, Ladies Night, Sweetheart Night, and through pregame and between-periods band music and other entertainment for fans.

The Oakland Coliseum seats 12,049 for hockey, and Finley pledges that "in three years they will be standing in line for season tickets in Oakland."

He said he will "do everything we can to build a championship team as soon as possible."

Gary Player Confident at St. Andrews

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland

(AP) — "I think I could play 72 holes in one day, if that situation arose," Gary Player said today on the eve of the British Open—the championship that started him on the road to golfing greatness.

The South African won the British Open in 1959 and has since captured the golf world's three other major championships—the U.S. Open, Masters and PGA.

Physical fitness breeds mental fitness," said Player, who won't need to play 72 holes a day but who will have to play 72 holes over four days on one of the world's great courses against many of the game's top players.

Five of those set to challenge the field and the 6,951-yard, par 72 St. Andrews course are Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper, Lee Trevino and Tony Jacklin, the defending champion and winner of the recent U.S. Open.

Others are Gay Brewer, Orville Moody, Bert Yancey, Tom Weiskopf, Dave Marr, Doug Sanders, Bob Charles, Roberto de Vincenzo, Peter Thomson, Bruce Devlin and Kel Nagle.

English bookies rate the 25-year-old Jacklin the favorite, with Nicklaus and Player co-second choices followed by Casper. Next in the odds come Trevino and Charles and then Palmer.

However Nicklaus, who shot a two-under-par 70 in practice Wednesday scoffs at the odds and the bookmakers.

"It's such a tremendous field that anybody who presumes to make a favorite must be slightly stupid," said Nicklaus.

Finley Has Big Plans for Seals

OAKLAND (AP)—For a man who protests, "I know absolutely nothing about hockey," Charles O. Finley has an impressive list of plans for his newly acquired Oakland Seals.

Most of the plans he mentioned at a news conference Monday involve spending money. The millionaire insurance executive who bought the National Hockey League club for $4.5 million says his principal interest in the team will be financial — "seeing that every penny is spent wisely."

Among the things he said he has in mind: —"beefing up" the club's present force of five fulltime scouts.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Ted Bashore tripped off the fence and came home when the pick-up was fumbled to break a tie in the seventh inning of the Memphis Blues a split with the Arkansas Travelers Monday night.

Steve Chilcott followed Bashore's balst with a home run and the Blues won the game 3-1.

Don Koonce stopped a Trav rally in the bottom of the seventh to save the win for Fred Rheam.

A crowd of 7,471, second largest in 11 years, watched the Travs win the opener 4-0 behind the three-hit pitching of George Winslow.

The split left the Travs still three games ahead of the Blues in the Texas League Eastern Division.

Paraplegic Team Entered by U.S.A.

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States will officially sponsor a team of paraplegic athletes in the World Paralympics in England later this month, it was announced Monday.

The U.S. team will go abroad under the auspices of the State Department for the international competition involving wheel chair athletes from some 20 nations. In the past, the American team has not had official sanction.

The 32-member team of handicapped athletes selected for the July 19-24 competition at the Stoke Mandeville Spinal Injury Center near London was also disclosed Monday. They will compete in wheelchair races, slalom, weightlifting, swimming, fencing, bowling, table tennis, discus, javelin, shot put, archery and team basketball.

Soviet Picks Up Titles in Wrestling

EDMONTON (AP) — Russia added to its gold medal total at the World Amateur Greco-Roman Wrestling Championships Monday, winning five individual titles and taking the over-all team trophy for the second successive year. The Russians won last year in Argentina.

Leading the talented Russians was Anatoly Roschyn, who won his ninth world title and his second in a row, with a 10-1 decision over Jozsef Csartari of Hungary in a final match of the heavyweight category.

Roman Rurua, 149½ pounds, Viktor Igumenov, 163 pounds, Anatoly Hazrenko, 180½, and Valery Rezancev, 198, were the other Russian champions.

They took the team award with five gold, one silver, and two bronze medals.

Bulgaria was second in the 17th world tournament at the University of Alberta with one gold, one silver and two bronze medals. Yugoslavia was third, Hungary fourth, Romania fifth and Japan sixth.

Although the Russians put on a smooth and powerful display throughout the three days of Greco-Roman events, more than 1,500 fans saved most of their applause for wrestlers from Romania, Hungary and Sweden.

Dave Hazenwinkel, 25, of Coon Rapids, Minn., took the silver medal-the best placing ever by an American in Greco-Roman wrestling—defeating Simon Traikov of Bulgaria. Hazenwinkel was the lone U.S. entrant in the finals.

Greco-Roman wrestling started Saturday with 152 competitors. More than 300 are expected to participate in freestyle events starting Thursday night with 34 countries entered.

In amateur freestyle, a wres-ter can execute holds on almost any part of the body and points are awarded for every correct hold initiated. In Greco-Roman, no holds can be executed below the waist. The ultimate goal in both categories is to pin the opponent's shoulders to the mat.

Chariot Race to Promote Horse Track

By HARRY EISENBERG
BOSTON (AP) — Bill Veeck is not about to let the dust from a few thousand years obliterate a good idea, especially when it can be used to promote his Suffolk Downs race track.

In the latest of his long line of unconventional gimmicks, Veeck has taken a page from the social calendar of Nero, the ancient roman emperor and part-time musician.

He has scheduled for Saturday at Suffolk a chariot race, named, befittingly enough, the "Ben Hur Handicap."

"Now how many people can claim they've seen a real live chariot race?" Veeck asked Monday in an interview. He admitted he borrowed the idea, but added that he had "no hesitancy in stealing from Nero. Besides, I don't plan on doing any fiddling."

In preparing for the race, Veeck, the track's president, sent one of his men to an MGM prop auction in Hollywood where he purchased four chariots used in the picture "Ben Hur."

"I got another one in exchange for a speaking engagement at Cesar's Palace in Las Vegas," the former baseball executive said.

Plans call for two five-chariot heats, after the third and sixth races, with the winner of each heat to meet in a run-off before the ninth race. The races will be run over four furlongs, and there will be no wagering on the outcomes.

To drive the ancient sulkeys, Veeck has enlisted the aid of 10 local disc jockeys, which no one expects will do any harm to the day's promotion.

Will they be dressed in proper ancient garb, tunics flying in the air?

"Sure, sure," Veeck said, "You have to do this thing right."

To pull the chariots Veeck has recruited five teams of horses from New York, "horses that are used to working in pairs, who've been pulling surries. There's not really a great supply of horses experienced in chariot-pulling."

Veeck also said he has chariot experts coming in from across the country—"both of 'em"—to take care of any maintenance problems.

"There's really not a very great demand for chariot mechanics either," Veeck said, almost wistfully.

Space Fund Is Attacked in Senate

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's space program has come under attack in the Senate in another chapter of the continuing debate over national priorities.

Up for consideration today were two amendments—one by New York Republican Jacob K. Javits, the other by William Proxmire. D-Wis.—to slash funding for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Javits sought to slash $600 million from the $3.3 billion fiscal 1971 NASA appropriation recommended by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Proxmire's amendment cuts the NASA budget back to the $3.2 billion approved by the House.

The new attacks on the embattled space program, for which the administration sought $14 million more than the Senate committee approved, came after a similar effort was narrowly turned back Monday.

Defeated on a 32-28 roll call vote was an amendment by Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., that would have cut out $110 million for research on a space shuttle.

Mondale said congressional approval of the shuttle system "may well put us down the road for another multimillion dollar manned space project."

Repeating an argument made during a fight over authorization of funds earlier this year, Mondale told the Senate his constituents repeatedly expressed concern to him over education, housing and the economy. None said anything about the need for a space shuttle, he added.

The NASA funds are contained in a $17.9 billion bill containing appropriations for a variety of agencies, including the Veterans Administration and the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

NASA estimates the eventual cost of the space shuttle at $14 billion, but Mondale said it could well run to $50 billion or $100 billion.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., agreed with Mondale but ran into opposition from Sens. Specter, Holland, D-Fla., and Gordon Allott, R-Colo.

Allott said the space shuttle is important because it will enable scientists to "study sun spots, and other things we must study outside the earth's atmosphere."

Gremillion Indicted 2nd Time

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — State Atty. Gen. Jack P.F. Gremillion has described his second indictment on federal charges in the collapse of the Louisiana Loan & Thrift Corp. as "the most vicious prosecution of all time."

A federal grand jury Monday returned a five-count perjury indictment against Gremillion, charging that he lied under oath when he appeared voluntarily in Jan. 21, 1969, before another federal grand jury probing L.L.T. activities.

Gremillion and four other men were indicted Feb. 14, 1969, on charges of fraud and conspiracy in connection with the firm, now being reorganized under the federal Bankruptcy Act. A long series of technical motions has delayed trials on the charges.

The new indictment charged that Gremillion "knowingly and willfully" made untrue statements when he denied:

—That he owned stock in L.L.T.

—That he had an "economic interest" in the firm.

—That he granted a proxy for his shares of L.L.T. stock for a shareholders' meeting on July 11, 1967.

Gremillion also was accused of having testified falsely when he stated that a $700 check dated April 15, 1967, from L.L.T. and noted "Dividend No. 1," which he received, was a campaign contribution.

Those indicted last year with Gremillion were Charles Ritchey, former L.L.T. president; Joseph Kavanaugh, Baton Rouge attorney and former L.L.T. conservator; State Rep. Salvador Anzelmo of New Orleans; and Ernest A. Bartlett Jr., Fort Smith, Ark., former chairman of L.L.T. and organizer of its parent firm, Arkansas Loan and Thrift Corp.

Life on Outside Is Perilous Ground for Newly-Paroled Man

By JOHN GANNAWAY
Pine Bluff Commercial
PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Life on the outside of prison walls is taken for granted by most people.

However, to the man who has just received a parole from one of the state's prisons, the ordinary things that many people do become potential sources of trouble that could send him back to finish out his sentence.

One of the most important people to the man on parole is his parole officer — the man who has the power to cause his parole to be revoked and frequently the man who plays an important part in helping him return to a normal life.

In this area, a parolee will be dealing with one of two men, J. W. Ryburn, a parole officer for Jefferson, Lincoln and Desha counties, or Ken Griffith of Little Rock, parole officer for the cities of Little Rock and Pine Bluff.

Ryburn, a former school teacher in a small rural school near Rison and a former policeman in Pine Bluff, has been a parole officer for 11 years. Griffith, who retired as a sergeant in the Air Force a few years ago and was in security work in the service and rehabilitation and probation work since retiring, became a parole officer about three years ago.

There are 12 parole officers in the state for male parolees and one woman parole officer. At the present there are about 1,200 people on parole in Arkansas.

The first requirement for a parolee is that the person serve a third of his sentence. Next he must have some type of work or training lined up. Ryburn and Griffith explained that this was usually done through the Employment Security Division or the State Rehabilitation Service and only rarely were parole officers involved in this phase.

The parolee must sign an order of parole that states the conditions of his release. These conditions include:

—Upon release you will go directly to your designated area and report to your parole officer.

You must immediately notify your parole officer of any change of residence. Written permission must be obtained from him before leaving your county or the state of Arkansas.

You shall obtain permission from your parole officer before quitting your job or changing employment. Loss of employment must be reported to him.

You must submit a truthful written report on the last day of each month. You shall report in person as directed.

You are to obey all federal and state laws, local ordinances and court orders. All arrests must be reported to your parole officer.

You cannot, without written permission of your parole officer, own, purchase, possess, use, sell, or have under your control any deadly weapons or imitation thereof, or be in the company of any person possessing such weapons.

You will avoid the excessive use of alcoholic beverages. You will abstain completely if directed. You will not enter places where intoxicating beverages are the major item offered for sale.

You may not own, buy, or provide money for the purchase of any motor vehicle without permission. You may not drive any motor vehicle without consent and then only if you present proof of a valid driver's license.

You will obtain advance permission from your parole officer to purchase on credit terms any item that costs in excess of $100.

You will not associate or correspond with persons who have a criminal record.

You may not have in your possession, use, sell, distribute, or have under your control any narcotics except as prescribed by a licensed physician.

You shall not marry without obtaining the written consent of your parole officer.

All of this adds up to that the parolee must lead something of an exemplary life — the type that few of them led before going to prison.

One of the most obvious patterns in the background of the majority of the parolees is that they came from broken homes, according to Ryburn and Griffith. Although poverty is a common background, not all the cases can be classified as coming from a poverty situation, Ryburn said. Overpermissive parents are frequently lurking in the background, he said.

As a general rule, the educational level of the parolees is low and the majority have less than an elementary education, they said. At the present time, whites outnumber blacks on the parole lists, they added. Most of the parolees tow the line and want to get through without any problems, they said.

Griffith said that sometimes the problems that cause the most troubles are very simple, but the man must be made to feel that the problem is as important to the officer as it is to him.

Quite a few men feel that the officer is out to send them back to prison and winning their confidence is not always easy. Generally, giving a man a break on some minor violation helps to promote confidence, but the officer has to be careful in this respect to keep from being taken advantage of, they said.

Parole officers do not carry guns and when any trouble breaks out they call the police. However, Ryburn said, such incidents are rare because the parolees know that brandishing a gun or other weapons toward an officer means a sure trip back to the prison. As far as they knew, no parole officer had ever been killed in the line of duty.

The proposals range from Dodd's approach of revising the 1968 gun control law, to Ohio Democratic Rep. Charles Vanik's measure to tax the transfer of blasting material and outlaw possession of untaxed explosives.

The President's recommendation specifies certain acts—such as transporting explosives for unlawful purposes, or damaging federal buildings—as being a federal crime.

The President noted that under some circumstances it is already a federal crime to transport explosives across state lines, but, he said, "I am proposing an extensive strengthening and expansion of that law."

Nixon's legislation is certain to cause controversy because it provides the death penalty when a terrorist act kills someone.

However, some backers say privately they might be willing to scrap the capital punishment provision if it endangers an otherwise acceptable bill.

But they say long prison terms for convicted bombers are essential elements in an effective legal approach to the problem.

While a House judiciary subcommittee prepares for hearings starting July 15 on suggestions for control of interstate trafficking in explosives, a Senate investigating subcommittee is reported planning an inquiry later this month into "the general problem of bombings and terrorism."

The Senate panel headed by Arkansas Democrat John L. McClellan intends to "outline the problem and take legislative recommendations from a number of people—and then go forward from there," a source said.

McClellan is expected to announce the dates for the investigation soon.

Among the measures to be studied by the House subcommittee is one entered by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., aimed at helping law enforcement officials fight crime while avoiding unnecessary federal restrictions on the use of explosives for lawful purposes.

Explosives-control measures flowed into Congress shortly after a series of bombing incidents and bomb threats earlier this year. But there was no movement on the bills until now.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., had wanted hearings in May on a bill he introduced.

But his Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee postponed action after he suffered a heart attack.

Riot Control Legislation Is Near

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Several months after a surge of explosions and bomb threats touched off calls for new federal antiriot laws, congressional committees are arranging hearings on proposed legislation.

Among proposals set for review by a House panel next week is legislation offered last March by President Nixon, who said: "The archaic and criminal elements who perpetrate such acts deserve no more patience or indulgence."

Nixon's legislation is certain to cause controversy because it provides the death penalty when a terrorist act kills someone.

SISTER GETS GOOD TREATMENT FOR BEING "BAD"
Dear Helen:
It's enough to make me run off and go bad too! If you get special treatment for doing wrong, why not?
My sister lived with a guy for three months. Now she's back home and you'd think she was the queen! Mom doesn't make her do anything around the house, or obey our deadline on dates. I'm only a year younger. (I'm 16 and my sister is 17), but I'm punished and bossed, and she isn't. Not that I don't deserve it. I'm just saying Sis does too.
If she is living here, shouldn't she be under "house rule," and not a pampered visitor? —M.C.
Dear M:
She certainly should! Your mother must realize she can't "spoil" a girl into good behavior. —H.
Dear Helen:
I'm embarrassed on dates because almost every bone in my body cracks! Lately I've got a new boy friend. Just think how he'll feel if I crack when he hugs me—like maybe he's broken something.
Is there any way to stop being a —CRACKER
Dear Cracker:
I know of no way, though you might check with your doctor. Why not kid about being a "cracking good date"? If you can't change a condition, you can often laugh it down to size. —H.
Dear Helen:
Congratulations on telling "Watchful" how wrong he is (about there being no more faithful couples left). He tried to convince us that married men and women never turned down an outside offer. That's dumb! I'm a 15-year-old with four sisters and one brother. My father has been the most fantastic person on earth, but he never could have made it without my mother. Together they brought up six kids; together they are sending three to college, one to high school and two through grade school. Together they have taught us all how to face life, and love it.
They could never be unfaithful to each other or to us. And this goes for the parents of many other kids I know. I hope "Watchful" soon realizes he is talking about the minority. As you say, Helen, what an obsessed person looks for, he usually finds, whether it's always there or not. —OBSERVANT RATHER THAN WATCHFUL
Dear Helen:
I am a very young housewife with a six-month-old baby. We've just moved to California and I'm so lonely I could bawl. There isn't much extra money so I can't afford baby sitting while I go to clubs. The neighbors are all older and not very friendly. I can't very well walk up to a girl in the supermarket and make

Television and Radio

By JERRY BUCK

AP Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bill Dana is temporarily forsaking performing to return to a familiar position in the fall season: He will be head writer of a comedy show.

Dana, once chief writer for Steve Allen, will direct a team of nine other writers producing material for "The Don Knotts Show" on NBC.

"I'm not going to appear unless something happens where they need a strangely attractive Hungarian Jew," said Dana who now sports a black Van Dyke beard streaked with gray.

If you should see Bill on another show he will not be doing his famous Jose Jimenez routine. Jose has been permanently retired.

"People would come up to me and say, I love that dumb Mexican," Dana said. "Well, I didn't do a dumb Mexican, but if people thought that was all that it was, it was necessary to retire him. I didn't want to be Andy Hardy all my life."

Dana, attired in a flowered Hawaiian shirt, leaned across the table and said: "Spell that J-a-r-d-y."

He said he was involved with the movement against the Frito Bandito commercials, "which was one of the reasons why I chose unilaterally to retire the character."

"A lot of people came to my defense and said what a terrible thing the Mexican-Americans did, but I had to explain it wasn't that way at all."

Dana's first job in show business was as a page for NBC in New York. Then he formed a comedy team with Gene Wood, but that didn't pay off so he became a writer for Don Adams.

"I wrote the first 'would you believe' joke in 1954. Would you believe I never got a dime for it?" he said.

At the same time he became acquainted with a young comic actor named Don Knotts. His writings for Adams led to a job with Steve Allen, who was then host of the "Tonight Show."

When Allen got his own weekly comedy show Dana became head writer and it wasn't long before Jose Jimenez was born.

"I did the first Jose Jimenez joke about Santa Claus going 'jo, jo, jo,'" he said.

If you saw the Don Knotts special on CBS you already know the format for the series.

In the manner of the old Jack Benny show, Don will discuss the show but never get around to doing it.

The format of the show is that there's no format," Dana said. "The sameness comes from a stock company and the same star. Maybe Don'll say, when I get into trouble I always see my Aunt Florrie and we'll go to a commercial and when we get back there's Don dressed as Aunt Florrie."

"We don't want to paint ourselves into a corner of having to do a book variety show. It creates a vehicle for us to use Don as he should be used, as an actor, not as a master of ceremonies."

Lots of Viewers

An estimated 28.6 million television sets were tuned in for the fourth game of the 1968 World Series, making this the second largest audience for any program in the history of the medium, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Nursing

Homes to Be Examined

By JAMES R. POLK

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Six teenaged girls from a rich private school have joined consumer crusader Ralph Nader to probe the plight of the old and the poor in the nation's nursing homes.

Spending two nights working undercover as nurse's aides, the girls told a news conference Monday of bedsores, patients smoking in bed at night, and a fire exit door that was kept locked in one facility.

"The home overlooked a cemetery on one side and a funeral home on the other," one girl added.

Nader said his young team will conduct a summer-long study of care for the elderly and the federal programs providing much of the financing.

"If there are going to be massive federal subsidies, why aren't there massive standards?" asked Nader.

The team, which will issue its public report in September, is led by Claire Townsend, 18, daughter of the author of the best-selling book, "Up the Organization."

The girls are fresh graduates of Miss Porter's School, an expensive private institution in Farmington, Conn. A seventh girl on the team is a young English teacher at the school.

Asks Harris to Step Out of Case

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — John W. Walker of Little Rock, an attorney for the Negro plaintiffs in the Pine Bluff school desegregation case has written a letter to U.S. District Court Judge Oren Harris suggesting that Harris disqualify himself from the case.

Walker said in the letter the suggestion was made because Harris' son James, is working for a Little Rock law firm that represents the Pine Bluff School Board in the case.

In the letter, Walker also objected to Pine Bluff's latest geographic attendance zone plan.

SE AISA NEEDS

they had been cramped so long they could not stand up, and female prisoners' cages were filthy.

Hawkins said the jail situation reflected South Vietnamese suppression of citizens who seek peace. He said U.S. authorities help cover up the treatment of prisoners.

Anderson did not agree with that characterization.

"But I'll tell you this, if these people weren't Communists when they went in, they'll be Communists when they get out after the treatment they've received."

The 70-page report said Thailand is willing to add its combat troops to South Vietnam's in Cambodia with U.S. military aid. It added some Southeast Asian leaders have suggested a common strategy including military equipment grants, mutual combat training, and use of neighboring countries' forces to repel invasion.

"Before one becomes intrigued by the potentials for close and continued military association of the countries of Southeast Asia," the report continued, "it is well to recall that hostilities that run deep into history cannot easily be erased."

Moreover, it said, all but Thailand have a fragile political hold on their populations and lack the economic stability to support military operations.

The report added: "Thailand is willing to join a common strategy only with U.S. military aid."

"Cambodia says it depends on U.S. air support."

"Indonesia says it cannot afford military aid to its neighbors."

Individually, the Indochina nations "are reconciled to, but unhappy about" U.S. determination to withdraw its combat troops, the report said, and some seem to welcome it provided their economic assistance is bolstered.

"With varying bluntness, all urge increased military equipment, more training, and presence of advisers, and air support."

The report also said continued economic aid hopefully might come from other nations such as Japan.

The study team headed by Rep. G. V. "Sonny" Montgomery, D-Miss., said stabilization of the South Vietnamese economy is urgently needed.

The effort to turn combat over to the Vietnamese and pacify the countryside "will be seriously and perhaps fatally" weakened if steps are not taken to correct South Vietnam's black market-stimulating inflation, unrealistically low interest rates that discourage investment, and a tax structure under which most taxes go uncollected, the report said.

It said strings on U.S. aid should exert more pressure "upon the government of South Vietnam to address itself more vigorously to improved military capabilities, internal reforms and to put its economic house in order."

Don Luce, a representative in Vietnam of the World Council of Churches, who accompanied Hawkins and Anderson to the prison island, said in Saigon today that they saw the caged prisoners only because a guard opened the door to the building by mistake.

Luce said Frank E. Walton, the chief U.S. police adviser in Vietnam, was with the group and told them:

"You have no right to come in here. The prison warden did not want you to see this. They are Vietnamese prisoners and Americans have no right to come here. It's a break in Vietnamese sovereignty."

Luce said Rep. Hawkins replied that the U.S. government was spending large sums of money to support Vietnamese prisons and he wanted to know how it was being used.

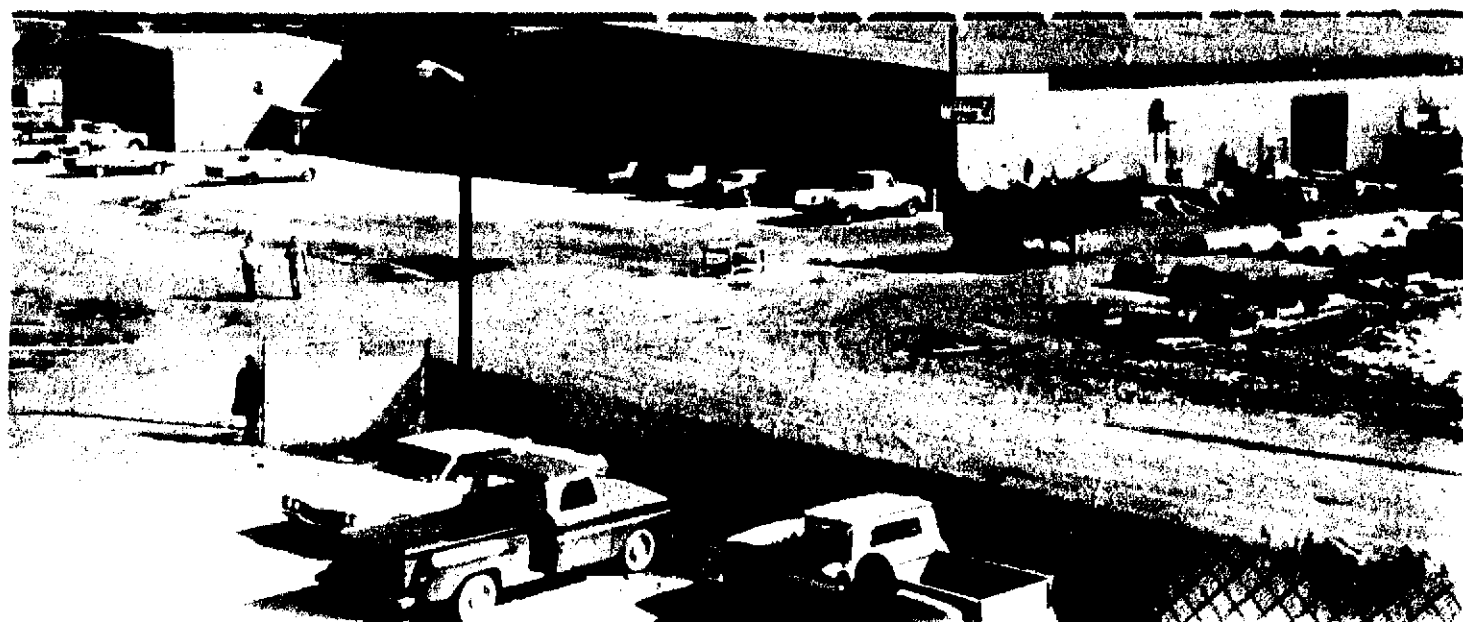

Afterward, Luce reported, Hawkins commented: "There are an awful lot of American boys who are being held prisoner in North Vietnam, and I hope our boys in Hanoi are not being treated the same way as the prisoners in the tiger cages we have just seen."

Walton said the U.S. Mission had instructed him to make no comment on the trip to Con Son, which is in the South China sea 140 miles southeast of Saigon. The French began using it as a penal island in the 1860s, and the cages are a legacy from them. The island is now the South Vietnamese government's main political prison camp and has some 9,000 inmates, according to official figures.

INDUSTRY SPEAKS ...

OK's City Manager

Two more Hope industrial plants, Young American Homes and Hope Wire Products Company, today endorsed the City Manager form of government in statements issued by executives of each company.

J.R. Bennett, Executive Vice-President of Mid-America Housing with headquarters in Birmingham, Ala., of which Young American Homes of Hope is a subsidiary, had this to say in an interview with Leonard Ellis:

"One of the big factors in selecting Hope for our new plant was the fact that you have a solid, stable, efficient City Manager form of government that we could depend upon for full cooperation, including adequate electric power, water, development of site location and other factors.

"Our location in Hope means 168 new jobs for the community with an annual payroll in excess of one million two hundred thousand dollars. This kind of a payroll helps everybody.

"We are happy in Hope, too. We also received splendid cooperation from your Chamber of Commerce, the Industrial Foundation, other organizations and many citizens, all pulling together.

"I might add that we are now in the process of locating a new plant in Levelland, Texas, and the big factor there is the same type of government that we have in Hope.

"We want to see Hope grow and prosper. We want to see you maintain your present form of government. It will mean a lot to industrial firms looking for new locations, and a lot to Hope in the future."

Harold Eakley, Manager of Hope Wire Products with headquarters in Holland, Michigan, had this to say:

"We came to Hope in 1958, and two of the contributing factors in locating here were friendly people and a sound and stable City Manager form of government.

"Electric power, as you know, is an important consideration in our operation. We received accurate, dependable information on this from your City Manager.

"Your City Board of Directors have been very cooperative, saw to it that our new site location was properly developed, our drainage problem solved, a new paved road to our plant location (Industrial Boulevard) and also completed our parking facilities. Everybody has been nice. We're happy.

"We are now employing forty persons, but that will increase in the very near future as we are at the present time adding much new equipment which will mean more jobs for the community—an expanded payroll.

"We're definitely interested in seeing your City Manager form of Government continued. It will mean a better, brighter future for all citizens."

TO RETAIN THE CITY MANAGER FORM OF GOVERNMENT, MARK YOUR BALLOT ON JULY 14 IN THE FOLLOWING MANNER:

FOR the proposition to reorganize the City of Hope under the MAYOR COUNCIL form of government.

AGAINST the proposition to reorganize the City of Hope under the MAYOR COUNCIL form of government.

Personal Note My Purple Martins Leave for S. America

Frequently Brooks Shults, the Fulton plantation owner, and I have our evening meal together in Hope—but he's been missing the last several nights. I was about to inquire when I received word this morning he is in Room 407, Wadley hospital, at Texarkana. Visitors should clear with the hospital before making the trip as they were being warned off Tuesday. My best to a good friend of 41 years' standing.

The purple martins of my two boxes in the "Back 40" game preserve on S. Walnut St. were last seen July 3, therefore are presumed to be on migration to South America.

They got here early this year, but left on normal schedule. Migration of the purple martin is determined by two factors: The movement of the flying-insect crop upon which they feed, and the rearing and flight-training of the year's hatch.

Here is the eight-year record of my martins' arrival and departure:

1963	— March 21	— July 17
1964	— March 14	— July 4
1965	— March 6	— July 12
1966	— March 15	— July 4
1967	— March 29	— July 15
1968	— March 18	— July 4
1969	— Feb. 22	— July 5
1970	— Feb. 10	— July 3

Tucker Head May Take Training Job

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The superintendent of Tucker Prison is reported to be in line to head a federally financed program to train 160 staff members for the Arkansas prison system.

The program depends on whether a federal grant is approved, but Correction Commissioner Robert Sarver said he felt confident the grant will be.

If the grant is approved, John Price will move from Tucker to Pine Bluff to conduct the training program for both the Tucker and Cummins Prison farms.

The grant would be for 21 months and provide professional staff for training of disadvantaged persons for the correctional officer system.

Sarver said Price had not been officially offered the position but said "we have been talking about it."

Sarver said he hoped to announce plans for the training program to the Board of Corrections Wednesday.

U.S. Grant to Penitentiary

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller said Monday the Department of Correction has received a $61,096 grant from the U.S. Justice Department to complete a maximum security unit at Cummins Prison Farm.

The unit will house inmates considered security risks, according to Robert Sarver, commissioner of correction.

The application for the supplemental federal funds was included in a comprehensive law enforcement plan written by the Arkansas Commission on Crime and Law Enforcement.

Dennis to Be Whaley Successor

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Dr. David Mullins, president of the University of Arkansas, said Monday that Dr. James L. Dennis, dean of the School of Medicine at the University of Oklahoma, has been hired to replace Dr. Storm Whaley as vice president for health sciences at the U of A.

Whaley resigned July 1 to become an associate director of the National Institutes of Health at Bethesda, Md.

Israeli See Red Threat, Ask for Arms

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli newspapers sounded new calls today for more American arms following reports that Soviet low-altitude as well as high-altitude anti-aircraft missiles have been moved closer to Egypt's Suez Canal front.

I. Gen. Haim Bar-Lev, Israeli military chief of staff, told a news conference Monday that Israeli pilots believed two SAM-3 missiles were fired at them last week but both rockets missed. Sources in Washington also indicated that some of the low-level SAM-3s had been moved toward the canal to supplement the high-altitude SAM-2 batteries already operating in the canal zone.

Egyptians reportedly operate the SAM-2s with the help of Soviet technicians, but the more advanced SAM-3s are believed manned by Soviet crews.

The Israeli press was unanimous today in urging Washington to act against what Bar-Lev called "the Russian hand" that "has been clearly felt" in establishing the missile sites.

"The United States must now respond quickly and openly to Israel's arms requests, as well as take action on the level of her global relations with the Soviet Union," the semi-official newspaper Lamerhav said in an editorial.

A political analyst for another semi-official daily, Davar, wrote: "In Jerusalem the evaluation is that one can expect soon a positive American response to the question of more arms for Israel."

Israel has repeatedly asked the United States to provide it more Phantom and Skyhawk warplanes. The Nixon administration has not yet replied to the request, but indications are that it will at least replace the jets Israel has been losing in raids against Egypt.

Israel has admitted losing three Phantom fighters in the past week in attacks on Egyptian installations across the Suez Canal, the largest number of Israeli planes reported downed in one week since the 1967 Middle East war.

In Middle East fighting today, an Israeli spokesman said rockets fired from Lebanon wounded two residents of one settlement in northern Galilee and slightly damaged buildings and the electrical system in a nearby town two miles from the Lebanese border.

In Amman, a spokesman for the Palestine Resistance Movement said Palestinian guerrillas had reached "an accepted formula" for peaceful coexistence with the Jordanian government.

Travel Agency Folds, 3,000 U.S. Students Stranded in Paris

PARIS (AP) — Several thousand American students found themselves momentarily stranded in Europe today after their Cincinnati-based tour group filed for bankruptcy.

But spokesmen for the group quickly arranged for an airlift for the students—who are in Paris, Rome, Cologne, Geneva, Vienna, Athens and parts of Yugoslavia—promising "we have the money."

Some of the students took the whole affair as a lark, others were bitter and a few were anxious. But nobody was suffering. "Nobody has been stranded," asserted T. Budge Hyde, acting president of the World Academy, the ill-fated tour group. "They are all safely housed in their accommodations and they

Sincerity Is Key to Draft Exemption

WASHINGTON (AP) — Following the guidelines of a Supreme Court decision, the Selective Service director has told local draft boards that sincerity is the key issue in determining whether a man should be classified a conscientious objector.

Curtis W. Tarr, the draft director, mailed local boards Monday a list of principles concerning conscientious objection to war.

"Boards are not free to reject beliefs because they consider them 'incomprehensible,'" the directive read. "Their task is to decide whether the beliefs professed by a registrant are sincerely held and whether they govern his actions both in word and deed."

The Supreme Court held June 15 that a registrant who professes no religion in the usual sense may be considered a conscientious objector on moral or intellectual grounds.

Tarr told local boards the day after that decision that an objector must have "consulted some system of belief" and must have derived that belief through rigorous training.

He acknowledged the "rigorous training" standard would give an advantage to the educated. Monday's directive said the belief must arise from activity "comparable in rigor and dedication" to traditional religious training.

"The primary test ... is the test of sincerity," the new directive read. "The board should be convinced by information presented to it that the registrant's personal history reveals views and actions strong enough to demonstrate that expediency is not the basis of his claim."

Interstate Damaged by Big Trucks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Big trucks are giving the nation's superhighways an unexpected beating that may cost taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars in repairs, a government investigation warns.

A special report to Congress says $200 million is needed so far to smooth over badly cracked interstate highways and is only a start.

The General Accounting Office, Congress' watchdog on federal spending, said Monday virtually all the superhighways built so far in the interstate system may need an added layer of concrete surfacing to patch eventual cracking.

Engineers have underestimated the heavy truck loads the highways have to carry, a GAO expert said.

"The crucial factor is truck traffic. Most engineers have told us if there were no trucks involved, the highways would last forever," said Bernard Sacks, who headed the GAO investigation.

As long as truck weights keep going up, more federal money is going to be needed for continual repairs, a Texas highway official added in the report.

The study involved so-called overlays, an extra inch or more of asphalt concrete placed on top of damaged interstate highways to enable them to stand up under traffic 20 years in the future. The $200 million was earmarked for 2,800 miles of splintering superhighways built before 1963.

"A significant amount of the interstate mileage constructed after 1963 will also require overlays before the end of the 20-year period," the report said.

"The total overlay costs will vastly exceed those included in the $200 million estimate," it warned. But GAO experts declined to estimate how much higher the final repair bill might run.

The $200 million figure stems from a 1968 highway report to Congress. Highway officials' estimates this year, completed after the GAO investigation, did not say whether the $200 million was entirely used up but did note at least $175 million more in added layers of pavement will be needed in the future.

About 30,000 miles of the 42,500-mile superhighway network has been built to date. The GAO said the cracking and buckling of the interstate roads is caused by mistakes in design due to misjudgments about bad weather, underlying soil and truck weights.

The GAO report recommended federal standards for maintenance and said the states should pay the entire cost of adding the new layers on the cracked roads. The Department of Transportation rejected the suggestions in a letter included with the report.

The federal government now pays 90 per cent of the cost of the layers as a construction improvement. Were they classified as maintenance, the states would have to foot the whole bill.

The report was based on a nine-state study of superhighway projects in Arizona, Colorado, Maine, New Mexico, Oregon, Texas, Vermont, Washington and Wyoming.

State Voters Show Drop of 22,000

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The number of voters in Arkansas as of June 1 showed a decline of about 22,000 compared to the same date last year, according to State Auditor Jimmie Jones.

Jones said Monday the decline was due primarily because this year for the first time the law required that voter registration rolls be purged of the names of voters who had not cast a ballot since the adoption of Amendment 51, the voter registration law.

The number of registered voters was 821,122, a drop from 843,880 as of June 1, 1969.

U.S. Fiscal Year Shows Record Debt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's bookkeeper has etched the figure $373,000,000,000 in red ink to close out the government's books with the highest fiscal year-end debt in history.

The Treasury Department said Monday the $373 billion recorded on a preliminary basis last week at the end of the fiscal year represents a sizable jump over the $357 billion a year ago.

The sum is not the nation's deepest indebtedness. The government approached $377 billion last March 30 just before income tax payments prevented it from going over the legal debt ceiling.

President Nixon recently signed a bill providing the authority to raise the national debt to $395 billion.

The $16 billion debt hike came during a year when military spending dropped a half-billion dollars from the previous year, economic aid expenditures were reduced by $80 million less, and space spending was cut by more than $670 million.

The final tabulation of the year's finances will be issued later this month.

No firm figures have been issued on the budget for the fiscal year, although Nixon administration officials estimate a $1.8 billion deficit.

Last May, the government predicted a yearly surplus of $1.5 billion. The economic slowdown was expected to cut deeply into this figure due to shrinking corporate profits.

The outlook for the current fiscal year is unclear. Official estimates anticipate a $1.3 billion deficit, but private and government forecasters predict the probable red ink figure will be in the neighborhood of $8 billion to $10 billion or higher.

The government continually borrows funds to pay off notes that come due. The Treasury borrowed $339 billion last year and repaid $322 billion. Interest on outstanding securities totaled $14 billion.

The Treasury sells about $3.5 billion in short term notes each week and occasionally issues other types of securities to insure sufficient operating cash.

The Treasurer's account, the basic government checking account, listed deposits of $9 billion at the end of the 1970 fiscal year. At one point, the tally dropped as low as $3.3 billion but income tax payments replenished the account.

Showers Are Likely for State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The possibility of showers in Arkansas is on the rise.

Clouds began moving into the northern part of the state Monday night and a few light showers developed in the northwest and north central counties early today.

Shower activity is expected to increase over the state as moisture returns with southerly winds from the western gulf.

These winds developed as a high pressure system, which covered much of the nation Monday, moved eastward and a low pressure trough developed east of the Rockies.

A slow warming trend which began Monday is expected to continue through Wednesday. Temperatures this morning were six to 12 degrees warmer than those recorded Monday morning.

Highs Monday ranged from 82 at Harrison to 90 at Fort Smith. Highs Wednesday should be in the 90s. Lows tonight are expected in the 60s and low 70s.

Authorities said McCoy was swimming in about 20 feet of water when persons nearby heard him call for help. The youth drowned before anyone could reach him.

New Pellet-Thrower Expected to Control Riots on the Campus

By EARL AMMERMAN
Associated Press Writer
BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Police in this University of California city with a history of campus-related disorders are now using anti-riot weapons firing wooden pellets "which sting like the dickens but don't penetrate the skin."

"The rioters have started getting cute on us," Lt. Michael Healy told a newsman Monday. "They don't get close to you. They hold back to the distance they can throw rocks from. But this pellet-thrower, which we found in Hong Kong, gives us access to them."

The blunt wooden pellets have caused no serious injuries thus far, Healy said.

Healy said the weapon—described as new to the United States—helped stop a disturbance last Saturday when some 500 demonstrators rampaged through streets after an "Anti-Honor America" rally, breaking windows and throwing rocks at police.

The pellets, like slices of a one-inch-diameter broomstick, are stacked five deep in a metal cartridge like a shotgun shell. The pellets "are circular, insuring against skin penetration," Healy said.

The shells are loaded into a gun similar to a tear gas launcher with a 1½-inch-diameter barrel and fired with compressed gas, not gunpowder.

Law Banning Birth Control Thrown Out

BOSTON (AP) — "You can make changes by working within the system," said William Ritchie Baird. "You don't have to throw rocks."

The 1st U.S. Court of Appeals Monday overturned Baird's 1967 conviction for violating Massachusetts' 125-year-old anti-contraceptive law and ruled the state unconstitutional.

"Now I can say to my children, 'daddy is free,' and perhaps people will stop calling me a sexual Pied Piper," the 37-year-old birth control advocate—himself the father of four—said after learning of the decision.

Baird's crusade began when he was visiting hospitals and physicians as a drug company representative in New York years ago.

Baird said he was present in a Harlem hospital when a mother of nine was brought in for treatment after she attempted to abort herself with a clothes hanger. The woman died.

Baird invested his savings—which had been earmarked for his return to medical school—in a trailer and began traveling around the metropolitan New York City area dispensing birth control information in slum neighborhoods.

Later he branched out to other states, and in October, 1967, he was arrested here for giving a birth control substance to a Boston University coed.

Baird spent 36 days of a three-month sentence in Suffolk County Jail before the appellate court ordered him freed on bail.

In overturning Baird's conviction, the court declared that the law prohibiting unmarried persons from obtaining birth control devices was "an infringement of basic human rights."

Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn plans to appeal the decision to the U.S. Supreme Court.

3 Railroads Struck on Firemen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three of the nation's railroads were struck today by the United Transportation Union, tying up train traffic of the struck lines in eleven states.

Union officials said the strike was called because of a failure to reach a settlement on a long-standing dispute over the elimination of about 1,200 firemen's jobs nationwide.

W. H. Gilbert, assistant UTU president, said in Cleveland that the strike against the Baltimore & Ohio, Louisville & Nashville and Southern Pacific railroads involves about 8,000 of the union's 260,000 members.

Workers were reported off the job and train traffic slowed or halted in Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Texas, California, Florida, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky and Oregon.

Charles Luna, UTU president, said the strike is aimed at an agreement on the fireman issue, and not a reopening of negotiations.

"This is just a simple failure of the railroads to bargain in good faith, to settle this issue which has been with us since 1965," Gilbert said.

"We have made every effort to try to avoid inconveniencing the public, but the railroads, in their adamant attitude in refusing to bargain on this issue has forced us to rely on our bargaining power."

Gilbert said that the railroads were notified on Nov. 15, 1965 of the union's intent to change the agreement affecting firemen, but that negotiations have not been allowed.

The railroads had no comment immediately on the union's accusations.
